Being sworn to secrecy or severe consequences about the birth of my son and that he had been taken ,it was never to be spoken of.I tried to return to normal life. Shortly after the birth I was attacked randomly and almost strangled, the police keep asking why I thought I was attacked.Thinking it must be about the birth and my secret out and somehow I would be punished and banished from any family, I could no longer give a complete statement and actually could not remember all of the attack ,but the deep marks on my neck were there.I had lost my baby and my sense of safety. I tried to keep a low profile avoiding any promotion and could not let anyone get close enough to ask any questions about the missing part of my life.I still keep my distance.
