SUBMISSION CONTENT:

--

I am completely against the euthanasia of people, it is assisted suicide and can be easily be misused and abused. Without there being any consequences. I can understand why people believe that it should be an option however once that line is crossed there is no going back and it is all too easy to then make it an option to people who are not terminally ill and the line gets pushed further and further back. Making this an option would be a massive mistake.

--

File1:

File2:

File3: