All individuals must be given end of life choices when an illness is terminal. Individuals must be given the right to choose their final chapter with grace and dignity. Terminal illness brings with it the need to put in order all financial affairs, making peace with the life that they had and no longer will have. Death is inevitable and you face this with an unexplainable clarity. It's time to end the suffering for all involved in such a situation and allow people to make a choice based on the remaining quality of life! We have a choice to live life, we should also have the choice to die with dignity and leave not memories of trauma and demise but of positive enforcement and joyous memories!
