Submission:

I am writing to express my ongoing frustration that duck shooting is still allowed in Victorian waterways when all the evidence points to a decline in overall water bird numbers. I live in regional Victoria and know that people visiting our tourism offering on the Goulburn River are wanting to see live, healthy bird life, not hearing shots and seeing people kill the bird life they love to experience. Duck hunting around Nagambie and Murchison does not promote tourism, it does the opposite and locals hate living with the sound of guns and knowledge of birds being needlessly shot for sport.
