Costerfield mine: ministerial visit .....	4129
Carbon farming: land valuation.....	4129

WRITTEN ADJOURNMENT RESPONSES

Responses have been incorporated in the form supplied by the departments on behalf of the appropriate ministers.

Thursday, 6 September 2012

Costerfield mine: ministerial visit

Raised with: Minister for Environment and Climate Change

Raised by: Mr Lenders

Raised on: 14 March 2012

REPLY:

The Department of Primary Industry (DPI) is the lead regulator of this site and as such all limits on emissions are set according to the site's work plan overseen by DPI.

In this particular case, DPI has requested EPA's assistance to better understand the noise issues and verify the data received from the mine's consultants. This work has been undertaken by EPA.

EPA's latest noise report shows some exceedences. However, with trucks, crusher and drill rigs contributing to noise levels, DPI and EPA will need to continue to work with the community and mine to identify the primary source of the exceedences.

DPI and EPA will continue to attend the quarterly Environment Review Committee meetings to get a better understanding of the key community concerns about the mine and work with the mine to ensure compliance.

Carbon farming: land valuation

Raised with: Minister for Environment and Climate Change

Raised by: Mr Barber

Raised on: 5 June 2012

REPLY:

Use of land for carbon farming, or the sequestration of carbon from native vegetation, does not qualify that land as 'farm land' for the purpose of the definition included in the Valuation of Land Act 1960. When the definition of 'farm land' was drafted for inclusion in the Valuation of Land Act 1960 this type of activity was not contemplated, or carried out on rural land.

The classification of a property as 'farm land' under the Valuation of Land Act 1960 is relevant to property owners as it results in a lower council rate (a farm or agricultural rate) being levied upon the property. As long as the majority of the business is used for primary production the property should retain its primary production status. The farm or agricultural rate is a matter for each council to determine and it will vary across the state based upon each individual council's policy.
