Endeavour Hills police station

Raised with: Minister for Police
Raised by: Mr O'Donohue
Raised on: 8 November 2016

REPLY:

The Government is responding to the law and order challenges faced by our state with a comprehensive strategy to prevent, detect and disrupt crime. The Community Safety Statement, released in December 2016 outlines the range of new investment, powers, tools and capability that Victoria Police will be equipped with to stabilise the crime rate and begin to reduce the level of harm being caused in the community.

Central to the Community Safety Statement is boosting of police numbers right across the state. In total, the Andrews Labor Government is funding 3135 additional frontline police, including 415 specialist family violence officers, over the next five years to support police respond to crime in our communities.

It is the biggest boost to frontline police in Victoria's history, and it is crucial to dealing with the growing demand on police services, particularly the challenges of repeat youth offenders, increasing aggravated burglaries, high-volume crime such as car theft, and family violence.

Victoria Police has developed a new and sophisticated staff allocation model, in consultation with The Police Association, so we know how many police are needed and where. It will also help police predict how many will be needed in the future — so they can start planning for them now.

This statement outlines our new $2 billion commitment to keep Victorians safe, prevent harm in our communities and hold perpetrators accountable.

The Chief Commissioner of Police has assured me that the level of policing is continuously monitored by respective command officers, with a view to ensuring community safety.

The Endeavour Hills police station is one of 135 stations that was built or refurbished by the previous Labor Government. The previous Government was up front about the fact that the station would initially operate for 16 hours per day and be covered by night patrols, with staffing levels bringing it to a 24-hour station once the remainder of the 1400 additional Labor funded police officers came on board. Since those 1400 police officers continued to roll out under the previous Coalition Government, those opposite also had ample opportunity to increase hours at the Endeavour Hills police station.

Endeavour Hills police are trialling an initiative, following a review by local police command which found that the number of people who attended or telephoned the police station was low, particularly on weekends. The three month trial, which commenced on 6 November 2016, will see increased patrols in the area and changes to counter service availability at the station. An evaluation will be completed at the end of the trial. Weekday services will remain unchanged during the trial and will be available from 7am to 11pm, Monday to Friday.

Information about the trial is available to the community via the Casey Eyewatch page. Local police undertook consultation prior to these changes and will continue to do throughout the rest of the trial.

Victoria Police is looking to maximise the amount of time police are out on patrol in their local community, responding to crime.

The nearby Narre Warren Police Station continues to provide a 24-hour counter service. It is important that anyone requiring urgent police assistance calls '000' in the first instance, as this will ensure the most appropriate police response.

Jumps racing

Raised with: Minister for Racing
Raised by: Mr Purcell
Raised on: 6 December 2016

REPLY:

The Victorian Government is committed to a vibrant and active racing industry and the continuation of the Victorian Racing Industry Fund (VRIF) which is funded entirely from unclaimed dividends and on course wagering taxes.

The Government recognises that the three racing codes, thoroughbred, harness and greyhound racing, are major economic drivers for Victoria, in particular for regional Victoria.

During the past year, the Government has approved funding from the VRIF for the following projects at Warrnambool:

- $600 000 for a new sand fibre training track
- $35 000 for an equine swimming pool
- $160 000 to improve the drainage of the Brierly Paddock
- $300 000 for the New Entrant Incentive Scheme to encourage participation in jumps racing.

These projects will equip Warrnambool with some of the best training and track facilities available and secure its place as a leading racing and training destination in the Western District.
