2. APPROACH OF HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR.—The approach of His Excellency the Governor was announced by the Usher of the Black Rod.

His Excellency came into the Council Chamber, and the Usher of the Black Rod was commanded to desire the immediate attendance of the Legislative Assembly, who being come with their Speaker, His Excellency was pleased to speak as follows :—

MR. PRESIDENT AND HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL :

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY :

You have been called together at this opening of the Second Session of the Forty-sixth Parliament of Victoria to consider legislative and financial matters of great importance to the people of this State.

Since the First Session of this Parliament ended, my distinguished predecessor, Major-General Sir Rohan Delacombe, K.C.M.G., K.C.V.O., K.B.E., C.B., D.S.O., K.St.J., completed his term of office and has returned to England. During his period of over eleven years as Governor of Victoria, Sir Rohan fulfilled his high position with great distinction, travelling to all parts of Victoria and meeting people in every walk of life. He endeared himself to all Victorians, whilst upholding the dignity and honour of the Crown.

It is fitting that I pay tribute to him on behalf of the people of this State. I will do my utmost to maintain the high standard he has set.

I refer with regret to the death earlier this year of His Royal Highness The Duke of Gloucester. He enjoyed many associations with Australia, including two years as Governor-General.

I refer also with deep regret to the deaths, since you were last called together, of two former Ministers of the Crown: The Honorable Sir Gilbert Chandler and the Honorable James Manson, and a former Member of the Legislative Assembly, Mr. Russell Stokes.

In introducing the First Session of this Parliament, my predecessor set out the Government's objective of promoting the happiness and well-being of the people of Victoria, with special emphasis on the quality of life.

Several measures were enacted in pursuance of this objective. In this new Session the Government will bring before you further measures aimed at consolidating and furthering its achievements and objectives in education, welfare, youth, decentralization and conservation, as well as in many other fields.

First priority will continue to be given to education, particularly in the provision of additional teachers and ancillary staff, the improvement of disadvantaged schools, and the provision of libraries, science blocks and arts and crafts rooms.

The Government intends to proceed towards its objective of at least one year's free pre-school education for every Victorian child who wants it. Already Victoria has 936 kindergartens and play-centres, providing for some 65 per cent. of Victorian pre-school children. This year a further 50 new centres will be built and staffed.

Reference was made at the last opening of this Parliament to the threat of inflation. The reality is now with us, and inflation, coupled with increasing industrial unrest and rising unemployment, is the greatest single threat at present to growth and production, and the living standards and well-being of every Australian family.

The Government has made several offers to the Commonwealth to take action in concert aimed at halting or slowing down the vicious spiral of wage and price increases now threatening the whole economy of the nation. These offers have not so far led to positive action, but the Government stands ready to introduce any necessary complementary legislation this Session.

The Government has co-operated with the Federal Government to the full in the development and implementation of programmes and projects involving both Governments which are for the benefit of Victorians. It is, however, greatly concerned that the powers vested in the State by its own Constitution and reserved by the Commonwealth Constitution shall not be eroded away by unwarranted Commonwealth intrusion into fields for which this Parliament is responsible to the people of Victoria.

The response to the Government's initiatives in promoting decentralization and restraining the growth of Melbourne has been extremely encouraging. There are now more than 1,396 approved decentralized industries in Victoria, of which over 150 have been established in country centres within the last two years. The Federal Government's actions in cutting back tariff protection and restricting credit have been most detrimental to some country industries, especially clothing and textiles, footwear and electrical goods, and the Government has been actively seeking support for them.

During the past year, the Government has co-operated with the Commonwealth and New South Wales Governments in the commencement of the Albury-Wodonga growth centre. Already land costing over $5 million has been acquired in Victoria for this important project.

Geelong has been nominated as a further growth centre, and intensive studies are under way to define the areas to be set aside for new urban development in this region. Melton and Sunbury were nominated as satellite towns, and legislation will be presented to Parliament to establish a Development Corporation for each one.

Tourism is an important decentralized industry, and the Government has been active in promotion activities, in conjunction with regional tourist committees. Legislation aimed at further encouragement of tourism will be presented to Parliament this session.

Decentralization of Government departments is proceeding with the appointment of Regional Directorates, notably in Social Welfare and Education, and this process will continue under plans already approved.

Regeneration of native forests is proceeding, with the treatment of over 20,000 acres this year. A further 1,000 acres of fire-damaged forests will be reforested by the hand-planting of eucalypts.

The creation of the Ministry for Conservation last year brought together the agencies concerned with the Government's conservation activities, and the protection of the environment.

The Environment Protection Authority has already made great advances in the control of pollution, especially of the atmosphere and waterways, through the setting of standards and the issue of licences.

The Authority is pioneering a programme aimed at reorganizing refuse disposal in Melbourne on a regional basis, and the Government expects to be able to submit legislation on the control of noise.

The Ministry is also co-ordinating multi-disciplinary environmental studies of Port Phillip Bay and Western Port Bay and their catchments, and will shortly extend its activities to the study of the Gippsland Lakes.

The Government regards the Yarra Valley, the Dandenongs, and the Mornington Peninsula as the most sensitive and vulnerable areas in the State, calling for special protection. Each is covered by a Government Statement of Planning Policy directing that it be preserved primarily for recreation and conservation. In each area the Government has embarked on an extensive "buy-back" programme so that key areas can be returned to public ownership and permanently preserved. Extensive protection is also being given by planning controls and, in addition, the Government is considering ways of improving the protection of these vital areas against further subdivision and urban type development which would destroy their character.

In the Mornington Peninsula the Federal Government is giving welcome financial support to the programme for the preservation of open space and large areas of scenic beauty.

A completely new wildlife Bill to replace the present Game Act will be introduced. The Bill will be based on new philosophies, will give protection to virtually all species of native birds, mammals, reptiles and amphibians, and will encourage increased public involvement in wildlife preservation.

The Historic Buildings Act, passed last session, is being brought into operation, and an amending measure, based on experience to date, will be introduced. New legislation will also be proposed to give protection to whole areas of historic or architectural interest.

Government policy is firmly opposed to any form of discrimination on grounds of sex, colour, race or religion. Several objectionable practices have already been abolished, but some areas of prejudice remain, and it is intended to establish a special bureau in the Premier's Department to investigate any cases brought to notice, and recommend legislative or administrative changes.

The Government also believes that migrants to Australia suffer special disabilities, principally on account of language and unfamiliarity with our way of life, and it is intended to establish another special bureau to help and advise migrants, supported by a Migrant Advisory Council staffed by members of foreign communities in Victoria.

The Housing Commission has continued its task of providing low and medium-cost housing, and expects to produce over 4,700 dwelling units this year at a cost of some $76 million, as well as building blocks for low income earners. Further sums will be spent on urban renewal schemes, including the Emerald Hill project in South Melbourne, in co-operation with the Commonwealth Government and the South Melbourne City Council.

Co-operative Housing Societies are expected to spend over $18 million, the Teacher Housing Authority will provide some 50 new residences, and the Decentralized Industry Housing Authority will increase housing finance for approved decentralized industries.

Irrigation areas in northern Victoria have suffered severe flooding for the second time in twelve months. The Parliamentary Public Works Committee, which is investigating methods of mitigating such flooding, is expected to report soon to Parliament.

The heavy rains in these areas have also caused grave increases in groundwater levels and salinity, and the Government provided funds for an emergency pumping scheme in some horticultural areas of the Goulburn Valley. Longer term remedial measures are being studied by an interdepartmental committee.

The Millewa Pipeline Scheme in the far north-west was opened in August. It provides a piped water supply from the Murray to 137 farms and two small settlements, replacing an earth channel system which was wasteful of water and labour.

The diversion tunnel for the Dartmouth Dam in north-eastern Victoria is well advanced and a contract has been let for the main dam, due to be completed in 1977.

Significant developments for town water supplies include the virtual completion of Rosslynne Dam, for Sunbury and Gisborne; substantial progress on the Otway pipeline for Warrnambool and other towns; work on the Lake Merrimu project second stage for Melton (and the Werribee and Bacchus Marsh irrigation areas); and good progress on the new Mornington Peninsula trunk main from Tarago Reservoir.

Late last year the Government decided to recommence the allocation of land settlement holdings in the Heytesbury and Rochester Projects. This will provide for some 150 farms to be allocated over the next five years. Housing contracts have been let for the first phase of the scheme.

Oil and gas production from the Bass Strait reserves continues to increase. Nearly 18 million tonnes of petroleum were produced last year. Plans to develop new fields are well advanced.

The Government has approved the construction by the Gas and Fuel Corporation of a natural gas pipeline to serve the country centres of Seymour, Benalla, Wangaratta and Shepparton and the new growth complex of Albury-Wodonga. This $18 million project is due for completion by the middle of 1976.

The Government is looking ahead to the energy requirements of Victoria in the future. Accordingly, the Ministry for Fuel and Power is preparing for presentation to Parliament a White Paper on the expected needs of the State and the resources available from fossil fuels, solar energy, nuclear power and elsewhere. It is also proposed that a Select Committee of the Parliament be set up to inquire into means of conserving energy.

The Government is pursuing a firm policy of encouraging the use of public transport and reducing the dominance of the motor-car, especially for commuter travel. This policy requires continuing action on several fronts ;

- Provision of new, faster and more comfortable trains, trams and buses. All are on order and new trains are being delivered at a steady rate. The first new trams will be delivered early next year.
- Preventing fare increases. In spite of inflation the Government actually reduced rail and tram fares last year, which led to a substantial increase in patronage.
- Construction of the Melbourne Underground.
- New stations, express tracks, and automatic signalling.
- Building of car-parks at suburban stations, and modal interchanges. Planning for the first two, at Box Hill and Frankston, is well advanced.

The Government is very pleased at the continuing reduction in the road toll. The number of road deaths this year to the end of August 1974 was 531, a reduction of 205 compared with the same period in 1970. This is due in large measure to the reduction in the maximum speed limit to 100 kilometres per hour, and to concerted action against drinking drivers, strong enforcement by the Police, compulsory seat belts, and strong support from the media. The Government will continue to introduce road safety measures of demonstrated value, and maintain Victoria's leadership in this field.

A new scheme is to be proposed for improved supervision of school crossings, requiring joint action by State and local governments along the lines of the scheme operating in Great Britain.

The Motor Accidents Board has received more than 14,000 applications for compensation under the no-fault scheme since it commenced operations in January 1974. It expects to authorize payment of approximately $7 million this year.

The Government is not satisfied with the present organization of the Road Safety and Traffic Authority, and legislation will be presented to make substantial changes. Control over traffic signs and signals and road marking will be transferred to the Country Roads Board.

It is intended that a proper scheme of priority roads will operate throughout Victoria as soon as possible.

The Police Department has continued the reorganization recommended by Colonel Sir Eric St. Johnson and this should be completed in less than two years' time.

Police strength is being steadily increased, communications are being improved, additional vehicles are being put into service, and an independent patrol group has been formed for emergency support of local police. The results are already evident in a significant reduction of crime over the past two years.

Planning is proceeding for the new Police Training Academy at Mt. Waverley which will make it the finest of its kind in Australia.

The tunnel through the Great Dividing Range to bring water from the Thomson River into the Melbourne system has been completed by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works and will enable more rapid filling of the new Cardinia Dam. This dam has doubled the water storage for Melbourne and already contains 17,500 million gallons. The very large South-Eastern Water Purification Plant at Carrum is expected to be in operation early next year to commence treating approximately 20 million gallons of sewage per day.

The activities of the Department of Youth, Sport and Recreation will be extended through continued regionalization and the provision of subsidies for municipal recreation officers.

Subsidies are also being provided for detached youth workers, for sporting association programmes, for fostering the community use of schools and for the development of community centres.

The Ministry of the Arts, in completing its first year of full operation, has made significant strides towards establishing the State's performing arts companies on a firm basis, and has developed a wide range of new activities including community arts.

The Victorian Council of the Arts is now considering a number of exploratory programmes in such fields as development of regional centres for drama and music throughout Victoria and the light entertainment industry.

The school building programme has been delayed by shortages of basic materials, recurring industrial troubles and cost increases due to inflation. However, it is expected that the construction of seven more primary schools will be completed almost immediately.

Tremendous improvements have been effected in teacher-pupil ratios. The Government has undertaken the biggest recruitment programme of overseas teachers that Australia has ever seen, over 1,600 teachers having been brought to Australia from the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada. This programme will continue.

The schooling of handicapped children, which has been taken over by the Education Department, will be boosted by the early appointment of 100 speech therapists, psychologists and social workers, and the release of 230 teachers for specialist instruction at a new college in the teaching of these children.

The Government has approved of the use in all schools of a simple course of sex instruction for children in the 11-12 years of age group. This decision was taken only after consultation with educational, medical and religious organizations, and the introduction of the course in any particular school is at the discretion of the principal.

The Government intends to drive ahead with the current five-year programme to improve mental health in Victoria. There are now 56 day-training centres for intellectually handicapped children, providing for 2,762 children, and four more centres are planned for this year, catering for an additional 102 children.

The Queen Victoria Hospital will be rebuilt on a site at Clayton adjacent to Monash University, an excellent location for a teaching hospital. This will be a major step in improving hospital services for the south-eastern suburbs.

The Ombudsman opened his office on 30th October, 1973, and already has received 1,334 complaints for investigation, of which 78 have been found justified. Legislation to amend the Ombudsman Act in the light of experience will be presented.

The new Tribunal on compensation for victims of criminal assault received its first applications in June, 1973. It has already made 508 awards involving $430,000 in compensation.

The Small Claims Tribunal has also been operating since February, 1974 and has had wide acceptance.
