ROBERT BOWIE,
Surgeon-Superintendent.

Concerning "Close Confinement," it may be remarked that there are no patients closely confined; at any time seclusion is employed, it is generally only for a few hours, and entirely as a remedial measure. Violent patients, unless very furious, or laboring under physical disease, preventing exercise, are allowed to be in the airing-yards, and sent out to walk under the care of one or more attendants, wearing canvas jackets or dresses, allowing considerable motion of the hands and arms—"the easiest mode of restraint that can be adopted."

The working male patients are employed in gardening, clearing and beautifying the grounds, cleansing and whitewashing the wards and dormitories, supplying fuel and water, carpentering, such as making wheelbarrows, coffins, and repairing fences, assisting in the kitchen, road making, draining, making canvas dresses, jackets, and caps.

The working female patients are employed in cleansing and whitewashing the wards and dormitories, washing and ironing in the laundry, making all the female wearing apparel and bedding of the institution, and repairing the male and female clothing.

The work completed by the patients consists of seven acres of land cultivated for garden purposes, producing on an average 3000 lbs. of potatoes and vegetables monthly.

Drains have been laid to carry off the refuse water, so as to prevent impurities finding their way into the river, and all animal and vegetable matters undergoing decomposition are buried and used as manure for the gardens.

The garden has been fenced in with a stone wall nearly its whole extent.

A rampart, or wall, has been erected between the airing-yards and the river on the male side.

A stone dead-house has been erected. A canvas house, lodging nightly twenty-three male patients, the carter, and two attendants, has been made and fitted up.

An old wooden house has been removed and fitted up for a stable.

A road about one mile in length connecting the asylum with the Heidelberg-road, is perfectly passable and will soon be completed.

About seventy-five yards of wooden pavement have been made in the female airing-yards, rendering the passage dry in wet weather.

The idle patients are those who in general cannot be induced to exert themselves in any useful employment. Some of them read, others amuse themselves with bagatelle and foot-ball; but the majority are in general listless, inanimate, slothful, and dirty in their habits. It not unfrequently happens, however, that some who for many months have remained in the state described, so far improve as to become useful and of decent habits.

The total cost of the establishment for the year 1856 was £16,995 19s.

|--------------------------------------|-----------|
| Salaries and fees to visitors | £3,150 19 |
| Contingencies | 13,845 0 |

16,995 19

640 acres of land are enclosed, in which the patients exercise themselves, walking, playing cricket, football, &c.

There are seven (7) pay patients at the old rate of 1s. 4d. per diem, and six (6) at the new rate of 25s. per week.

NOTE.—It may be observed that I have divided the insane into two classes, the Maniacal and the Idiotical; but there are several of them who might be classed under either head. Some of the maniacal, in their calmer moments, being demented or idiotical, while some of those given as idiotical are liable to sudden outbursts of maniacal fury. In classifying them as I have done, I have deemed them maniacal or idiotical, according to the length of time passed in each stage. I would also represent that I have placed among the maniacal, monomaniacs and puerperal lunatics, and that I have classed them according to the state they were in when admitted. Should a more minute division of the forms of insanity be wished for, it can speedily be supplied.
